I am a hi-tech human, who hands out his head hoping to heal his hankering to get his happiness hit: handling a keyboard, hatching a hymn of the heart for himself and others. Humans uphold me as handsome, humane, warm hearted, hardworking, huggable and helpful. However, I see me as hospitable, hopeful and handsome. Verily, this vichyssoise of verbiage veers most verbose, so let me simply add that it is my very good honor to meet you and you may call me Hisham

Dear Hiring Manager

I would like to express my deep interest in finding a suitable position at your desired foundation.

With a lavish experience in the Technical field, as web and mobile apps development projects manager, and extended knowledge of being a technical writer and copywriter, I believe I will be a great addition to your desired company.

My skills have exceeded expectations, with already well-established communications skills, management skills and technical skills.

My maturity, practical experience, attention to detail, and eagerness to be perfect will make me an excellent team member.

I have attached my resume to this letter and looking forward to hear soon from you.

Thank you so much for your time and consideration.

Best Regards,

Hisham Mohammad
